

Nomination guidelines: Leaders in Food & Beverage Awards 2017

Who can put forward nominations for the Leaders in Food & Beverage Awards?

If you work in the food and beverage industry in the Middle East, you can nominate your colleague(s) or business for an award. If you work for a PR or communications agency which represents an F&B client, you can nominate your client, however please do this in collaboration with them to avoid duplication of entries.

Can I submit more than one nomination?

You can submit more than one nomination, however, separate forms must be completed for each nomination.

Can I nominate myself?

No, you cannot submit a nomination for yourself. If you would like to be considered for an award, please approach a member of staff in your public relations or human resources department who can assist you by submitting a nomination on your behalf.

Which countries can put forward nominations?

For the purposes of the Leaders in Food & Beverage Awards, the 'Middle East' refers to the Gulf Corporation Council (GCC) countries (Bahrain, Oman, Saudi Arabia, UAE, Qatar and Kuwait) and Egypt, Iran, Iraq, Jordan and Lebanon. Nominations can be submitted for any business or individual operating in any of the listed countries.

How do I write a good nomination?

Please read the categories list carefully and fill out the nomination form to the best of your ability, including as much detail as possible and any proof points you can offer, such as evidence of the candidate/ business meeting and exceeding KPIs or growth targets and examples of outstanding performance/ achievements. Any nomination found to contain false information will be disqualified.

How do I submit my completed nomination form?

Please return your submission(s) to catering@bncpublishing.net by 23.59 on Thursday 7 September. Entries will not be accepted after this date.
